Present Perfect Tense

1. The present perfect tense is created from the present tense of the verb "haber" and the past participle. The present perfect tense describes an action recently completed in the past. This tense translates as "to have done something." (i.e. I have eaten, you have seen, etc.)

2. The present tense of the verb "haber" is as follows.

   Haber - to have

   he            hemos has           ----- ha            han

3. To form the past participle for regular verbs, do the following.

1) For "-ar" verbs, drop the "-ar" of the infinitive and add "-ado."
2) For regular "-er" and "-ir" verbs, drop the "-er" or "-ir" of the infinitive and add "-ido."
